Hide And Seek

An uproarious spoof of the detective story. Nothing is what it seems—or is it? Dead bodies come to life. Disappearing money appears—and disappears again. Can we trust a word anybody says? Can we believe what we actually see with our own eyes? What appears to be a cliché turns into a new twist. What we know is going to happen doesn't. Or does it?

The play centers around an inexpensive pine casket which holds the body of rich, but eccentric Hiram Collingsworth. Gathered for the reading of the will are his two daughters—Melissa a scheming brat who wants it all, and Katherine, so grieved by her father's death that her already capricious mind has tumbled over the precipice. There's Ellen, his niece; Mrs. Gullickson, a very friendly neighbor; Regina, his personal secretary; Mrs. Crawford, his crafty lawyer; and Michael, ready to marry whichever daughter inherits the most. The only ones who are obviously above suspicion are Belinda, the maid; Mrs. Falconey, the cook; and Butler. Attempting to solve the mystery is the bumbling Inspector Clouseau-like detective from London, Detective Smyth.

There will be a 20 minute intermission between scenes two and three.

Food and drinks will be served by the senior class.
